Miss Henderson, the most popular milliner, has been in St. Louis in the interest of Lopez's Millinery Department, acquainting herself with the latest styles in millinery and replenishing the stock. The ladies can depend on Miss Henderson's ideas of taste, and can rest assured that if they call they will certainly be pleased in every way.

Rev. L. C. Wernert has been in St. Louis this week taking part in the celebration of the golden jubilee of the Ursuline convent in that city. At the banquet Wednesday night Father Wernert responded to the toast, "Our Ursulines," and the daily papers characterized his address as "full of humor and evoked much laughter." Bishop Hennessy of Wichita, Kansas, was also present and delivered an eloquent sermon on "The Needs of the Age." Bishop Hennessy will visit the Valley and spend a day or two at the convent before returning West.

This is the season of all seasons of the year when a horseback ride, or a drive behind good roadsters, is most enjoyable. If you own a rig of your own you're lucky, but if you don't possess a horse and buggy, and have to hire, Collins, the Ironton livery man is the person for you to see. He just turns out as fine rigs and horses as can be secured anywhere in the State of Missouri. He asks us to tell the public that he is especially well fitted to take care of this summer's business. New harnesses, new horses, new buggies, new harnesses, new horses, new everything—in fact first-class equipment throughout. Summer visitors are given every attention; picnic and tourist parties fitted out in the best of style. Remember Collins, when you want anything in the livery line. Stable, north Main street, Ironton.

In March last a man by the name of Douglas died in one of the houses across the Knob Creek, in the vicinity lately termed "Cuba." He left a wife and three small children in destitute circumstances. Some of the ladies hearing of the deplorable condition of the family took the matter in hand and arranged to send Mrs. Douglas and her children to Illinois, where she assured them she had relatives who would take care of her. Accordingly the children were made presentable, the woman clothed, and a ticket furnished them to their destination. This was about two months ago. Monday night the mother and three children returned to Ironton, saying their relatives in Illinois could not, or would not do anything for them, and the people there had sent them back here. They will likely become county charges.

An individual giving his name as Allen Fish, and home in Arkansas badly frightened a family in Arcadia Monday while the head of the house was away from home. Fish presented a striking appearance; rough and uncouth, with a stubby growth of beard on his face, long and unkempt locks that nearly reached his shoulder, with garments that were tattered and torn his picture was one of altogether pleasing. His talk was unceasingly of the Almighty, and declared that he was the "Son of the Father." Of course, he frightened the women and children and when the head of the family referred to arrived at home that evening and learned what had taken place during his absence he quietly came over and notified the Sheriff. Mr. Gregory at once located the aforesaid fish sleeping by the railroad track, who when aroused at once began his talk of the "Father and Son." After interrogating Fish awhile the Sheriff concluded he was only a harmless crank, and instructed him to proceed on his journey northward. Fish didn't want to go, but after hesitating about a day finally departed.

The entertainment given under the auspices of the Guild of St. Agnes in connection with St. Paul's church on Tuesday night was a great success. The girls and young children acquitted themselves most admirably in the various pretty scenes, and the very small ones won great applause in the Maypole dance. The songs given by Nellie Herbert, Mamie Roehry and Eva Kelly, who all belong to the Guild, were all well received and applauded and indeed all the numbers given by local friends were admirably rendered. Some tableaux were shown at intervals with very pretty effects under the direction of Mr. Mayor, and the Comedietta, "That Dreadful Boy," was played surprisingly well by Nannie Brown, M. Roehry, Oscar Hill, Jas. Garrett and E. Roehry. The great feature however of the entertainment was undoubtedly the so-called cakewalk, by young Miss Woodruff and Ed. Smith from De Soto. It was really a most graceful performance of a very high order and was something quite new to the Valley. The two young people in their various evolutions made up a most artistic picture and they won tremendous applause, and which little Miss Woodruff responded to with a song, which was also ecored. At the end of the entertainment, just before the closing piece, the dance was repeated by special and urgent request, and the previous success was repeated. The Guild are to be congratulated on having been able to give the inhabitants of the Valley an opportunity of seeing the performance. A madonlin party of Arcadian friends played several pieces during the evening with great acceptance. Altogether the entertainment was one deserving of high praise and commendation, and the young people were well worthy of the good encouragement received.

A Correction.

IRONTON, Mo., May 29, 1899.
Ed. Register—I read in the Republic of last week the following version of a conversation which took place between the editor of that paper and myself on the 16th inst.:
"Mr. C.—I hear that you had an article in your paper this week (issue of May 4) reflecting on me."
"Ourselves. Well—yes."
"Mr. C.—Was it intended as a personal matter?"
"Ourselves. No. It does not mean you personally, but politically—that is another thing."
"Mr. C.—I think I have done my full duty."
"Ourselves. I have no doubt in the least but that you did your full duty so far as you knew, but a man may do wrong through ignorance, though ignorance is no excuse in law."
I met Mr. Broadwell on the day named, and the following conversation ensued:
"Mr. Broadwell, I have been told—for I have not read the article—that you have attacked me personally in this week's issue of your paper; I also understand that you told Whitworth, O'Neal and Huff that the article in question did not refer to them, but to the outgoing county court and others, and I wish to know if it is true or not."
He answered—"I have not attacked you; there was nothing personal in it."
"Well, have you attacked me as an official?"
His answer was: "I have not; I have nothing in the world against you. I believe you have done your duty."
Those were his exact words. Nothing was said of dereliction of duty through ignorance. R. L. CARTY.

A Complaint.

Dear Mr. Editor—Newspaper editors are usually so kind and sympathetic that one often feels like going to them with their troubles, as to a father-confessor.

My grievance is this. I have a private yard around my house (as other people have) for the private use of my family. A great many inconsiderate people have taken it into their heads that they own the place, and invade it by day and by night; roam around at pleasure, disturb us and our neighbors by loud and unseemly noises and conduct; strew the place with litter; throw stones at the birds and on the grass to the ruin of my mowing machine, disgrace the summer houses, and run over the lawn indiscriminately, utterly regardless of rules and printed notices.

Perhaps worst of all, some young people (both sexes) sneak in after dark, hide or loaf about in the dark places under the trees. This spring surpasses all my worst experience of this kind in the past. Now my patience and forbearance are exhausted, and I appeal to you and the considerate public to aid me in putting a stop to this. "Sylvan Lake grounds" is a private yard, and not a public park.

Quiet, orderly people can visit the spring and the monument for a few minutes in day time, but not after dark. I do not propose to allow my grounds to be made a night landing and trying place for the night intruders. I do not object to young ladies and gentlemen spending a short time on the grounds boating now and then during day time if quiet and orderly; but they must remember it is simply a private yard, and not a place to play or loaf.

As my notices and requests are treated with contempt, I now give fair warning to night intruders to keep out; that I shall hereafter treat intruders at night as burglars, and will use my shotgun, or put them in the hands of the Sheriff. I am tired of this annoyance. Take warning and keep out. J. W. EMMERSON.

Joys of Home.

While others dream of distant joys
By mountainside and sea,
The charms of nature near at hand
Are good enough for me;
No brighter sunshine's to be seen,
No skies of clearer blue,
No grass or trees of fresher green,
No sweep of finer view!

Content am I in Goulding's Park
Or Sylvan Lake so fair,
Or by the rippling Shut In streams,
Or eke the sweet Des Valley

And other well-loved spots there be
Where grateful soul may roam—
So sing who will of peak or sea,
I'll sing the joys of home!

MIDDLEBROOK, Mo.

From Goodwater.

Ed. Register—The furious rain and hailstorm which is reported as having visited different portions of this and adjoining counties on the 7th, instead, also passed over a part of this community. For about 15 minutes the hail fell fast and thick, many of the hailstones being unusually large. Considerable injury was done by the hail to fruit trees and to gardens.

If "a wet May, a barn-full of hay" is a true saying, we shall all surely have hay in abundance this year; for so frequent and ground-soaking have the rains been, that they kept the fields too wet to plow in during the greater part of the past month. Hence farmers throughout this section of the country—most of whom were already "behind-hand" with their work—were prevented from planting and sowing during nearly one-half of the month. Consequently, much of the corn-planting heretofore was deferred until this week and this means much to the farmers, for not only are their corn-crops belated, but they will urgently need thorough cultivation at the very time that harvesting will have to be done; the attendant push and worry will surely try the powers of endurance of farmers, especially as it will then be hot and overbearing.

R. C. Crocker has removed his saw mill plant from Brannum Hollow to his farm.

Dr. Joshua Cox and wife have returned from a three-weeks' visit to relatives at Flat River.

G. W. Love and his daughter, Pearl, went to Belgrade on the 12th inst., and on the 13th inst., John G. Yount accompanied by his daughter, Essie, and Miss Cora Carl also went to Belgrade.

J. M. Lucas recently went to Howe's mill on business.

The following-named persons visited friends and relatives hereabouts during the past month: Miss Martha Abbott, of Farmington; Miss Effie Love, of Belgrade; Gertie Nipper, of near Quaker; Luther Scott and wife and Chas. and Richard Beers, of near Court.

Misses Martha and Almada Abbott and their brother Robert recently visited relatives near Court.

R. C. Crocker visited his sick brother, Mr. O. J. Crocker, near Bellevue, last week.

Mr. John W. Harnal, of Bellevue, passed through this locality on his way to, and return from, Salem recently.

On my way to Ironton recently I staid over night with Mr. Simeon E. Buford and family. Their home near Bellevue is an almost ideal location for a residence. The site of the house and lawn is quite elevated, affording a fine, unobstructed view of the surrounding country, in almost every direction, for miles around. The beautiful lawn about the house is quite extensive and
